So far none of our feminine sex have made any leap year oaths, however.

We will not guarantee that we will be able to say this at the close of the year 1916 for we have one very attractive "eligible" in our office.

One of our business men who is not given to rising early became so alarmed at the bright light diffused by the passage of the brilliant meteor he was about to get up when his wife quieted him by telling him that was the way daylight made its appearance every morning.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the British suffrage leader, who was detained at Ellis Island when she arrived on the steamship St. Paul, was ordered excluded from this country by the special board of inquiry which sat at the immigration station, we are afraid of infiltrating ladies.

In view of the fact we printed an old school essay and said it was read 65 years ago when it should have been 55, thus making a difference of ten years in quite a number of ages, we have caused to be printed and hung over our desk the following sign: "Don't shoot the Editor - send your ammunition to the Allies!"

Should you meet a friend from an other town and pass the time of day with him the first question you will ask will be "How's everything in your town?" The answer invariably is "Oh, everybody has the grip." Along with the grip are many cases of cold, tonsillitis, "rings in the head," and many other kindred afflictions.

"At School in Old Kentucky," is the title of a full-page article in the New Year number of the Country Gentleman, describing the work of the College of Agriculture of the State University. The article is illustrated with a number of photographic reproductions, showing the various phases of the work of the College of Agriculture and the Experiment Station, not the least interesting of which is the cut showing the magnificent trophies won by the dairy and live stock team at the National Dairy Show and Horse Show a few years ago. The article goes on to state that within the past ten years the number of students in the College of Agriculture has increased from 27 to 316, and in the department of Home Economics, from 10 to 63.

GREAT REJOICING.

NEW CLERK.

W. Smith, has recently secured the services of Mr. Ghent Bush, of Richmond, as one of his salesmen and he assumed those duties last week. Mr.

Bush comes highly recommended and we are glad to welcome him into our midst.

SELLS OUT.

Mack Turner, who has conducted a grocery on depot street for the past year, sold out his business last week to Mr. M. L. Schwenn, who came here recently with his family from North Carolina. Possession was given Monday morning.

POPULAR OFFICIAL.

Guy Davidson, mayor of Lancaster, was in Danville for a short time Tuesday. Mr. Davidson is serving his second term as chief official of our neighboring city, which shows his popularity among all classes of her citizens.

He told The Messenger that the "dead lock" over election of chief of police has been broken by the selection of Mr. Duck, formerly of Junction City, who has been on the job for some time.

The other candidate for the job was Luther Herron, well known in Danville. - Danville Messenger.

WHY SHOULD THIS BE?

The financial statement of the condition of the City of Lancaster is published in this issue of the Record. It shows that the city Treasurer was paid during the year 1915 the sum of $220.24 for his services and taking care of the city deposits. Now the city of Stanford, which is a town of about the same population, sold to the highest bidder last Friday night, the privilege of her city depository and received $220.00 for the same. Will some one please tell us why this seeming extravagance of $410 of the peoples money? Stanford pays her city treasurer $30 a year.

EUROPE'S SCARRED SURFACE

For nearly a year and a half ten million men have been engaged in tearing up the surface of European battlefronts. Most of this land was formerly devoted to agriculture. Who will restore it to its former condition, and when? It has been estimated, that allowing for first, second, third and up to seventh line trenches which exist on some of the fronts, there are ten thousand miles of underground and open defenses in Europe today. In addition to these gaping mutilations of a once fair landscape, the earth has been pitted and pock-marked by millions of shells and thousands of exploded miniers.

There have been dug hundreds of miles of tunnels, which one day will cave in and further scar the land. The husbandman who follows the soldier in these desolate acres will face a forlorn prospect.

EASTER NOT TILL APRIL.

Easter comes later this year than it has since 1905. April 23 is the date of the end of Lent. Easter Sunday was the same date in 1905. Easter will not come as late as April 23 again until 1943, when it will be two days later,

April 25. In 1886 Easter Sunday fell on April 25, the latest date for Easter from 1801 until 2000. In the year 2000

Easter Sunday will be on April 23.

With the exception of 1943 there will be no Easter Sunday as late as April 23 until 2000.

Coming on April 23, Easter Sunday, will be nineteen days later than last year. Next year it will be fifteen days earlier. In the retail business world

Easter furnishes the greatest spring stimulus. Spring will almost be over by the time Easter arrives and this great religious holiday will almost mark the beginning of early summer this year because of its lateness.

DEFENDS HERSELF.

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, chairman of the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, said to have drawn upon the State treasury to the extent of $1,585.82 without authority, returned to Frankfort from the East and when seen said she would make a reply to the "attack" upon the commission at a meeting of that body to be held in the capitol building. The "attack," to use Mrs.

Stewart's term, consisted of a communication from Attorney General M.

M. Logan, through his special assistant,

John C. Duffy, of Hopkinsville, to the State Auditor setting forth that the commission, without any authority, in his opinion, had drawn funds from the State treasury. It is set forth in the communication that the money was paid over on recommendation of the State Sinking Fund Commission, but attention is called to the fact that the bill creating the illiteracy commission provided no funds whatsoever for it other than voluntary contributions from public-spirited persons.

IT COMES HIGH.

It costs a country newspaper money every time it takes a stand on any question, says the Shelbyville Record.

Almost any citizen besides a newspaper man can do it without injuring his business. If the editor advocates improvements, the sore heads go after him and sometimes stop their paper.

If he opposes improvements the progressive sort get on him and call him a back number and a knocker. If he publishes politics, the opposition gets into his hair, and if he does not, he is charged with being afraid to stand out for his opinion. If he condemns mail-order houses, there are some people who ask him to attend to his own business, as they have a right to trade where they please. If he publishes a mail-order ad, some of the merchants are after his gore. No country paper can come out squarely without making enemies and losing money, and in the run of a year or more will incur some criticism for everybody. The newspaper that undertakes to please everybody will please nobody. If it is honest and sincere and thoughtful, the public will respect it.

TO BE CONGRATULATED.

congratulated on securing the services of Mrs. Lila Drakes, of Nicholasville,

COURT EDICT AS TO RHEUMATISM

Judge Barhorst Testifies Rheuma Has Given Permanent Relief to Many.

No matter how many so-called remedies for rheumatism you have tried, do not be skeptical about the wonderful curative power of Rheuma.

There is no other preparation like Rheuma. It goes to work so quickly as to leave no doubt in your mind of the ultimate successful and permanent relief. One dose daily nets on the diseased kidneys, blood and joints more readily than any other known remedy. It cleans out the "human sewers" and thus purifies the entire system.

"I, John Barhorst, Justice of the Peace of McLean Township, Ft. Laramie, Ohio, do certify that I was cured of a very bad case of rheumatism by using two bottles of Rheuma. It is now two years since I used the remedy, and I am still as well as ever. Previous to using Rheuma I was a cripple, walking on crutches. I have advised Rheuma to at least a dozen persons and each one speaks as highly of it as I."

You can secure a bottle of Rheuma for only 50 cents of R. E. McRoberts or any druggist. 1-20-21.

Bad Habits.

Those who breakfast at eight o'clock or later, lunch at twelve and have dinner at six are almost certain to be troubled with indigestion. They do not allow time for one meal to digest before taking another. Not less than five hours should elapse between meals. If you are troubled with indigestion correct your habits and take Chamberlain's Tablets, and you may reasonably hope for a quick recovery. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Obtainable everywhere.

HOGWALLOW NEWS

(Hogwallow Kentuckian.)

Once a cigar stump gets under your feet it is harder to get rid of than a friendly cat.

Little Fidelity Flinders carried an all-day sucker to school with him, but the teacher used it until recess.

The Dog Hill preacher had on another clean shirt last Sunday. Poke Eazley says he can see how some folks can afford to dress so well.

Sim Flinder says he cannot see how some roosters are able to be around much in the day time after having sat up all night crowing.

While Raz Barlow was over to see Miss Fruzze Allison Sunday evening, he enjoyed some funny moving pictures by turning the pictures in the family album right fast.

Dock Hocks, who has gained much notoriety as a dentist during his leisure hours at the blacksmith shop, mixed business with pleasure yesterday by pulling a line tooth for Miss Gandaia Heston.

Poke Eazley had his picture made while over at Tickville a few days ago. It is a very good resemblance of Poke, but there is a little blur around the necktie, he having swallowed just as the camera went off.

The editor of the Tickville Tidings is at sea over the working of the new law which requires all editors to state under oath who owns their printing plants. He didn't know who owns the Tidings, as it has never been paid for.

There was an interesting contest at the Rye Straw store this week, as to who could keep a feather up in the air the longest by blowing it. If the feather had got directly over one of Mrs. Tobe Moseley's conversations she would have won the prize, Tobe says.

Columbus Allison, had he had the advantages of earlier training, might have become a sleuth equal to the deputy constable, as it is he is still possessed of a pair of keen eyes, and considerable shrewdness. On Friday morning he saw a track of a mink in his back yard near the chicken roost, and, getting a pencil and paper, he copied it off and started out through the Gimlet Creek bottoms in search of the owner. After hunting for many hours and examining several minks, he was at last rewarded with success, having found the animal fit, and returning home with him.

DO YOU FEEL HEADACHY? LOOK TO YOUR STOMACH.

It is an unusual thing for a druggist to sell medicine under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. Yet this is the way R. E. McRoberts, the popular druggist is selling Mi-na, the standard dyspepsia remedy.

Never before has he had so large a number of customers tell him that a medicine has been successful as with Mi-na. People who a few months ago looked like walking skeletons have put on flesh and today are ruddy and vigorous with perfect digestion and good health.

There is no longer any need for anyone suffering or making their friends suffer on account of dyspepsia. Mi-na can always be relied upon. The percentage of cures is so great that there is little risk to R. E. McRoberts in guaranteeing to return the money if the medicine does not relieve. And he stands ready to do so without any questions.

Headaches, all forms of indigestion, specks before the eyes, dizzy feelings, and all forms of liver trouble are helped by Mi-na. A few days' treatment should show considerable gain in health while a complete cure often follows rapidly. 1-13-21.

SOUTHERN DRUG MERCHANT MAKES UNUSUAL STATEMENT

Greatest Business Losses Due to Neglect

W. WITHERS MILLER

President of the Pott-Miller Drug Company, Richmond, Va., is authority for the following extraordinary statement:

"I estimate that the business men of this country could increase their efficiency fully ten per cent by taking an occasional laxative and not neglecting the bowels as most of them do."

He also said that if the Department of Commerce in Washington would present such business men in the country with a box of Great Peppermint Cure, it would be of great benefit to the national welfare. Retail Druggists are prompt in action, pleasant to take and never gripe, can be used by men, women or children, and are just the thing for tuning up sluggish livers.

He is survived by his wife and little son and to them is offered the sympathy of a host of friends in their bereavement.

Mrs. James Spillman died suddenly on Tuesday morning at four o'clock of heart trouble at her home at Mune. Although she had been ill for some little while, no one thought her condition serious and her death came as a great shock to her family as to the community at large. She was a faithful member of old Paint Lick church, where funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at three o'clock by her pastor, Rev. W. M. Eldridge, after which the body was laid to rest in the Paint Lick cemetery. She is survived by her husband, three sons and three daughters and the sincerest sympathy of the whole community goes out to this bereaved family and also to the aged father and mother upon whom the blow has fallen so heavily.

After dinner the merry bunch enjoyed the theatre then returned to the home and spent the remainder of the evening playing bridge. Messrs. Prof. Pond, M. Rickards, Stanley Temple, Russell Hager and Thos H. Wall, of Huntington, W. Va. Miss Hager as hostess entertained these young people very beautifully. Before entering the dining room each member was presented with a bunch of beautiful flowers. The party then entered the dining room which was very artistically decorated. In the center of the table was a bouquet of rose buds, lilies of the valley, sweet peas and violets. They then gathered around and participated in a nine course dinner. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards. At 12:30 this merry crowd disbanded and bid Miss Hager good night.—Paintville Herald.

We are authorized to announce Miss Jennie Higgins a candidate for County School Superintendent of Garrard County, subject to the action of the Democratic primary August 1917.

Our esteemed contemporary, Hon.
Harry Summers of the Elizabethtown News, is not pleased with all the Governor's ideas of economy. In a recent issue of his good paper he says:

"Governor Stanley's recommendation to take from the Sheriffs of the State the fee for carrying convicts to the penitentiaries and have the prison guards come for them does not strike us with favor. In many Counties of the State the office hardly pays sufficient to secure the service of a good man and in cutting off the fees for carrying prisoners to the penitentiaries takes away from the office one of the few easy things the Sheriff has to do for which he receives good pay."

According to our observation the sheriffs, as a class, are the best paid officers of any who serve the State, and we think the Governor is right when he recommends that this "easy thing" the sheriff has in conveying prisoners to the penitentiaries be lopped off. It will be remembered that the sheriff is now getting ten cents per mile for this service, when it actually costs two and one-half cents per mile, and those sheriffs who are from Counties at the extreme ends of the State sometimes make more than One Hundred Dollars a trip conveying prisoners. We not only think that this could be cut off of the sheriff's pay, but several other things and still plenty of good men could be induced to serve the public in this important office. In fact, it would be refreshing to be referred to some County in this State where good men cannot be procured to serve as sheriff on account of insufficient pay.
But, if our brother is correct in this assumption, we can assure him that there are many other Counties in which the sheriff is so much over-paid that he scrambles to get this fat job frequently causing considerable disturbance and brings about the expenditure of large sums of money both in the primaries and in the final elections, and in many instances this is on account of the pay being out of proportion to the duties of the office. There is one thing certain it would be difficult to convince the burdened tax payer that the pay of the sheriff is inadequate, and not sufficient with the Governor's recommendation complied with.

In our opinion the system in effect by which sheriffs and other County officers are paid should be reformed. The fee system which was adopted many years ago is now thoroughly antiquated and should be reformed and there should be substituted therefor a system by which all County and State officers are paid by salaries. If this was done the sheriffs of the State as well as many other County officers would not be receiving on an average of more than one half what they now get, and the public would be just as well served.
Also other officers would be relieved in proportion in many Counties of the State and this fund could be turned into the making of better roads, or some other useful purposes.

The Governor's recommendation is music to the ears of thousands of tax payers, who are giving him praise for his suggestions in reform and we expect to hear of him recommending in addition to what he has already done that the State abandon the fee system and adopt instead the placing of public officers upon salaries.

RICHMOND BAND

Chosen For Duty At State Functions.
Officers of the Second Regiment Band of the Kentucky State Guards, at Richmond, having been notified by Adm.
Gen. S. Tandy Ellis, that that band had been designated as the official band for state duty by Governor Stanley and is ordered to report at Frankfort to play for the reception that is to be given to the legislators. This is an exceptional good band and gave some fine music and took a prominent part in the inaugural ceremonies last month.

BOTH ARE GOOD.

We are asked, "What is the best commodity and answer you ever heard?" That which was answered by a minister who was asked by a vain woman which hand he regarded as the most beautiful. And he replied, "Ask the poor, and they will tell you that most beautiful hand is the hand that gives."
Next to it is the reply of a banker who was asked, "Why is a promissory note like a rosebud?" He answered, "Because it matures on falling dew."

HON. H. CLAY KAUFFMAN ADMINISTRATION ANTI-TRUST BILL INTRODUCED IN HOUSE BY GARRARD COUNTY'S REPRESENTATIVE.

Quite a compliment was handed to our Representative, H. Clay Kauffman, when he was introduced to introduce the Administration Anti-Trust act, which he did last Monday morning and this important bill will be known in the House as the "Kauffman Bill". It will have the united support of the administration and defines a trust or monopoly as an association of combination of any number of persons established or organized having as its object, or as one of its objects, that of fixing, influencing or regulating the supply, demand or price of any goods, product or commodity in the State of Kentucky or elsewhere, and provides that any person who shall enter into, create, become a member of or participate in any pool, trust or combination in restraint of trade or competition or in the importation, transportation manufacture or purchase of any product or commodity shall be deemed guilty of conspiracy in restraint of trade, or any person who enters into or participates in any trust, agreement or combination to regulate, control or fix the price of any product or manufactured article, or to maintain such price when so regulated or fixed, or to limit the amount of any article of a manufacturer, shall be guilty of conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Any violations of the provisions of this act is deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine not to exceed ten thousand dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed one year.

The provisions of the act do not apply to any organization or association having an capital stock or not engaged in the business of buying or dealing in any article of commerce.

SAGERSER.

After several years suffering from a complication of diseases, Mr. John M.
Sagerser, aged 75 years, died at his home near the mouth of Sugar Creek on January 16th. He was buried in the family burying ground near the home.
Mr. Sagerser was the father-in-law of Mr. J. H. Witt, of this city, having married his mother about thirteen years ago. He leaves no children.

SAD DEATH.

Friends and relatives received the sad news of the sudden death of Mrs.
Sadie Chaires Davis, of Jacksonville, Fla., which occurred last Tuesday. She was the daughter of Mrs. Sallie Satter Chaires and Thomas Chaires and spent some of her girlhood and school days in Lancaster. She has many friends and relatives here who sympathize with her loved ones in their great bereavement.
Surviving her are three daughters:
Mrs. James R. Taylor, of Miami; Mrs.
Mary Long Davis, of Jacksonville; Mrs.
Logan N. Rock, of Frankfort, Ky.; two sons, Chas. E. Davis, of Madison, and George R. Davis, of Miami; one sister, Mrs. Charles Granger, of Schriber.

DOTY.

Capt. John G. Doty, aged 87 years, and a widely known citizen of this county, died at the home of his son, John G.
Doty, Jr., near Marksburg, Tuesday morning. While it was known that he was a sufferer from Bright's disease, yet his friends and relatives did not realize that the end was so near. Capt. Doty was an old Confederate soldier and did gallant service for the cause at Woodbury Tenn., and at Chickamauga.
He was a Captain of a local company of State guards before the war and won his title in this way. The ranks of these old soldiers are thinning rapidly in this county and those remaining will shed a silent tear at the loss of another comrade. Capt. Doty was a member of the Presbyterian church at Old Point Lick and the funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. W.
M. Eldridge, Wednesday afternoon, after which burial services took place in the Lancaster cemetery. He is survived by four children, three sons and one daughter, all of whom are residents of Garrard county.

FISCAL COURT

Judge C. A. Arnold has called the entire Fiscal Court to meet in session today with Architect Webber and contractor Raymond to pass on the work recently done on our court house. This work is about completed and with a few more little details, will be turned over to the court.

HIGH AVERAGE.

Mr. J. A. Conn Jr., one of the best tobacco raisers in this county, sold his crop in Danville last Friday, that brought him the high average twenty cents a pound for his entire crop.

A LITTLE LATE.

owing to the unavoidable delay in the shipment of five tons of "news" the Record is coming out just a little late this week. Short news is attaching every week in price and at times it is almost impossible to get a shipment, although our order for the above lot has been in for several weeks. Some of our rural subscribers may be a little late in getting their paper, but the delay was unavoidable and we trust it will not happen again.

DISTRESSING.

Several cases of poverty was unearthed during the recent cold here in the city, but a few of the good people responded liberally to their aid and much clothing, fuel and food was furnished them. It seems that a charitable organization should be taken up here, so that such cases as these could be promptly looked after, for many of them are worthy and the good people of the town should come to their aid.

BREAD THE STAFF OF LIFE.

The advertisement of Davidson and Doty which appears in every issue of the Record, makes interesting reading, for they are pushing a line of local that makes your mouth "water" to gaze upon. This enterprising firm has secured the exclusive agency for the "LITTLE BRITAIN" brand and fresh shipments are received daily from Danville, where it is manufactured by the "Ship Perfect". They carry at all times the "Little Britain" loaf, Rye, Graham Wheat, Krimp, Vienna,
Raisin Bread and fresh rolls.

MESSAGES FOR LANCASTER.

Beginning last Sunday night, the ministers of this city are giving special sermons on live subject in their meetings at the various churches. These meetings are in character and will be held at one of the four churches every Sunday night for four weeks.

A good crowd heard Rev. A. J. Cline speak at the Christian church last Sunday night, his theme being "The Master's View." The services will be conducted at the Baptist church next Sunday night, by Rev. S. H. Politt and he has announced his subject, "Our Men's Need of Church Services." The meetings begin promptly at 7:15 and the public is cordially invited.
Other announcements will be given out next Sunday.

MYSTERY MAKES

TANLAC SECURE

Imitation Is Set At Defiance By The Famous Master Medicine.

Tanlac! There is magic in this household word—a magic made by success unprecedented and a fame based very solidly on its accomplishments in more than one million homes.

The ingredients for Tanlac are gathered in the remotest parts of the world.
From the far North woods to Argentina, below the equator; in Russian Asia, the Alps, Pyrenees, on the sunny shores of Italy, from Brazil, Sumatra, Peru, the West Indies, and the slopes of our own timbered Rocky Mountains, come the roots, herbs, barks and even flowers that, under the direction of Herr Joseph Von Timbach, the noted German chemist, are compounded into Tanlac.

There can be no successful imitation of Tanlac. It is compounded by skillfully and as mysteriously as nature distills the famed mineral waters of Europe.

Tanlac, now universally known as the Master Medicine, is proving invaluable against ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, and cutaneous affections of the mucous membranes, which, when neglected, so often affect the vital organs themselves. As a general tonic for half-sick, run-down men and women, it builds up the tissues, creates a keen appetite, promotes digestion, vitalizes the blood and brings back color to the cheeks and sparkle to the eyes.

Tanlac may now be obtained in Lancaster at R. E. McRoberts drug store, it is being explained daily.

SUBSCRIPTION LAWS.

"Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions."

"If the subscribers order a discontinuance of their publication the publisher may continue to send them until all dues are paid."

"If the subscriber refuses to take periodicals from the postoffice to which they are directed, he is responsible until he has settled the bill and ordered the paper discontinued."

"If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher and the papers are sent to the former address, the subscriber is held responsible."

"The courts have held that refusing to take periodicals from the postoffice or removing and leaving them uncollected is prima facie evidence of intention to defraud."

"If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the subscriber is responsible until express notice with payment of all arrearsages is sent to the publisher."

WILL HISTORY REPEAT?

One hundred years ago, 1816, was "a year without a summer." Will history repeat itself this year, it being the one hundredth anniversary of that momentous year, says the Paris Democrat. In 1816 it snowed every month in the year. An old man in Kentucky told me he had heard his grandfather talk of that year and one incident impressed itself on his mind. His grandfather said that he and his "gri" started for a fourth of July celebration, but were compelled to turn back on account of a terrible snow storm. The old man told me that in the spring of 1817 his grandfather and another man rode from Kentucky on horseback into Pennsylvania and paid $5 per bushel for seed wheat with which to plant their fields. The past year was a step in that direction. We did not have two weeks of real summer weather during the entire year. Possibly the weather man was waiting for the one hundredth anniversary to roll around so that history might have a chance to repeat itself.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

Mrs. Mary S. Barlow of Denver Colo., has sent leaflets from a hymnal and an album which belonged to her great-grandfather, Rev. Thomas Williams to Mrs. Fisher Herring, whose stone term-house was built and occupied by this early Kentucky Methodist minister at the close of the eighteenth century.

The hymns are done in manuscript as delicate and perfect as script, suggesting that the pioneer hymnals were in hand-writing.

The album, to which the leaves belonged, was for the year 1791. From the verses of warning against the "dram shop" and other evils of the day and the sage prose advice concerning health and general conduct it gives evidence of having been an issue of "Poor Richard's Almanack", that classic among almanacs that annually emanated from the press of Benjamin Franklin. This was published until 1796.

It is unusual that such frail fragments of early times are returned to the very room in which they were originally held after a removal lasting for generations. Mrs. Barlow lived in Lancaster in her girlhood being a daughter of the late Judge Nicholas Sandifer, and a sister of Mr. Joseph Sandifer, both one time citizens of the town.

Of her relatives now residents of Lancaster are her cousins, Mesdames Elijah Harris, Selon Henry and Wm.
Lawson.

Should Be Enough.

If you believe what you say when you are saying it you are doing pretty well without being held to strict accountability for it years afterward.

Why You SHOULD SELL in LEXINGTON

Because It is the Biggest Market in the World.
Because All Large Manufacturers Have Their Redrying Plants Here.
Because all Smaller Manufacturers buy through Brokers on this Market Because we have 39 licensed buyers on the Lexington Market.
Because as shown by the Commissioner of Agriculture's report for December there was sold on the markets outside of Lexington 10,202,846 pounds for $896,180.36, an average of $8.78 per hundred, while there was sold on the Lexington Market for the same month 4,984,320 pounds for $511,- 676.86, an average of $10.27 per hundred, showing the average of the LEXINGTON MARKET to be $1.49 per hundred HIGHER than all the other markets of the state combined.

Now Mr. Farmer stop to figure: if the 10,202,846 pounds of tobacco which was sold on your home market could have been sold on the Lexington Market, for an advance of $1.49 per hundred, it would have meant $152,622.11 in your pocket. Then why not take a day or two longer and sell on the biggest and best market in the world.

Our market closed very strong this week and prices of all grades were well maintained with possibly some types a few cents higher. The general average being $10.12 per hundred, which shows an advance of 28 cents per hundred over last week's average.

We have a sale every day in one or more of our houses.
As to the prices we are getting and the way we look after your tobacco, ask any one who has sold with us. We will stand by anything they say about us and about your tobacco in that basis.
We advise you to bring your tobacco on and sell it as soon as you can.

Our Motto is Prompt and Efficient Service and Courteous Treatment.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Bacto Compound and 1 oz. of cayenne. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost.
Full directions for mixing and use come in each box of Bacto Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is a safe remedy for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

LOAN US FIVE "BANGS"

The following dispatch from Washington says: Passage of the bill to have the United States pay to Louis Landrum, administrator of the estate of W. J. Landrum, who was collector of Internal Revenue in the Eighth district of Kentucky from 1874 to 1885, $5,316.29 as commissions on collections from 1874 to 1879, was urged today in a report of Representative Stephens, of Mississippi, chairman of the House Committee on Claims. Under the act of 1872 collectors were entitled to commissions of one-half of 1 per cent. of the total collections on distilled spirits.
The estate of Collector Landrum received his commissions from 1880 to 1885 and the present bill is to obtain the commissions for the first four years of his term of office, provision for which was omitted by attorneys for the estate. The bill, reported favorably, was introduced by Representative Helm.

RESOLUTIONS

Adopted By The Session Of Paint Lick Church.

We the session of Paint Lick church would humbly recognize the sovereignty authority of God who doeth all things well and the Lord Jesus Christ our Savior as the Great Head of the church.
Wherein in the removal of our dear ly beloved brother, J. Wade Walker, we would not attempt to assign the reason for what God has done, but in humble submission to divine wisdom, we would say "even so Father for so it hath seemed good in thy sight."

Therefore be it resolved by the session
1. That with an undying faith in the wisdom and goodness of God our Heavenly Father we humbly submit to His will in the removal of our brother and co-worker from the church militant to the church triumphant and glorious.

2. That we put on record our testimony as to the fidelity with which he served his Lord and Master, Jesus Christ. For forty three years he served the church in an official capacity till the Master said to him "Well done good and faithful servant." We shall miss his presence in the session, with his wise counsel and delightful fellowship.

3. That we extend to his family our heart felt sympathy and love in their bereavement and commend them to the keeping of our Heavenly Father. May He at this time graciously give to them the sweet consciousness of His love and presence. And may heaven daily become more real with the added attraction of the loved one whom God has transferred from earth to heaven.

4. That these resolutions be recorded in the minutes of the session, a copy be sent to the family, one the Christian Observer and the county paper for publication.

J. B. Woods,
Clerk of session Paint Lick church.

JOHN WADE WALKER.

The subject of this sketch was the third son of John Williams Walker and Jane Kavanaugh Finkler Walker.
He was born Nov. 7, 1847 in Garrard county Ky, and, with the exception of ten years in Richmond Ky, spent his entire life in the community in which he was born. He died at his home Nov. 30, 1915, having just completed his 68th year.

He graduated at Centre College, Danville Ky, in 1868. While a student in College he united with the 1st Presbyterian Church in Danville.

June 6, 1872 he was happily married at the Moran family residence to Miss Florence E. only daughter of Mr.
Franklin Moran. This marriage was blessed with two children, Miss Estill Williams and Mr. Franklin Moran. Walker a practicing physician and teacher in the Crescent Hill Presbytery, near Lexington Ky. He is survived by his widow, these two children, one sister Mrs. Elizabeth Henry of Lexington Ky, one brother, Mr. A. K. Walker of Garrard county, and a large number of nephews and nieces, who mourn the departure of one whom they all loved.
He united with the Paint Lick church August 1882 under the pastorate of the late Rev. Wm. Crow and one month later was ordained a deacon. On August 21, 1878, he was made an elder.
He moved to Richmond Ky in 1881 to educate his children and the family put their letters in the 1st church. He was soon made an elder in the church there.

In 1901 he returned to his farm and was again made an elder in the Paint Lick church. He served the church in an official capacity for forty three years.
He was one of four brothers, all of whom were elders in the Paint Lick church with but one left Mr. A. K.
Walker.

Mr. Walker was an ordinary character. He would have been a leading man in any church or community. The church, the community and the county all recognize the removal of a most useful life. He was richly blessed of God with a magnificent physique and a striking and commanding personal appearance. He was blessed with a fine mind, well developed and well balanced.
But for that he had a heart that was in keeping with his large body and strong mind, a heart that had been touched by God's spirit that made it brim with emotions of love to his fel-lowmen.

He accepted fully the evolutionary theory of salvation by grace and his only hope was in the atoning blood of Jesus Christ. He was a humble child of God. He has gone from us, but the power and influence of his character will be felt as long as any live, who knew this godly man and remember his clean and upright life.

"And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; Yea saith the spirit that they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

This is the tribute of his pastor who knew him intimately and loved him devotedly.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Miss Katherine Parke, who has been sick with grip for several days is again in school.

The mid-year examinations begin Wednesday noon and will continue throughout the week.

In the matter of the Honor Roll for December we omitted to mention Lena Young and Robert Canner of the fourth grade.

Our various rooms of the school building are warm, comfortable and inviting this zero weather which speaks well for the heating plant.

The epidemic of grip which has had this school in its clutches for several days is gradually easing up and the vacant seats are nearly all taken again.

Mrs. Todd, teacher of expression, was called to Franklin, Tenn, because of the serious illness of her grandmother.
Mrs. Todd will not meet her classes this week.

Catherine Burness of the Junior class goes to Danville with her parents, who have moved there. Her many class mates regret to see her go. She will enter school there.

Mrs. Webb's music class is steadily growing in numbers. She has several new pupils this week. The boys as well as girls are availing themselves of an opportunity to take music.

The girls in Miss Robinson's sewing class are making up their work with renewed energy and enthusiasm. The work that is being done by this class is really worth while and there are large possibilities for this work.

There is an awakening of a general character relative to the teaching of moral and religious truth in the public schools of this country. The schools of Seattle, Spokane, Tacoma, Birmingham, Grand Rapids, Des Moines and New York City are trying out experiments in this direction. There is a crying need today for the development of the fundamental elements of character that results in complete manhood and womanhood. The maintenance of the principles of truth, honesty and sobriety in the minds of youth in its adolescent period, in the formative stage of life, is the sovereign task of education.
The world today is calling, as never before, for young men of sound body, trained intellect and high morals. The institutions of learning cannot supply the demand. No educational system is complete that does not measure up to Plato's standard of giving to the body and to the soul of the beauty and all of the perfection of which they are capable.
Are the schools meeting this supreme test?

Here is the letter written by Hugh Watson, aged 12, a newspaper carrier, of Oklahoma City, which took the $10 cash prize offered by a bank for the best 100 words how to save money:
"I think people should save a part of everything they make. If they do they will appreciate it some day. Boys should make budgets to go by and strictly adhere to them. The boy can save his picture show money, candy money and money that he spends for marbles, tops, toys, etc. They should save at least 5 cents or 10 cents a week, and more if possible.
"Boys can cut lawns, run errands, chop kindling and bring in coal for people. Every little bit helps a little bit more. The idea is to save money, not to spend it as fast as you make it."

KIPLING SEES 40,000 MEN

Noted Author Is Thrilled by Veteran Army Corps of the French.

We present below the third of six articles from the pen of Rudyard Kipling, under the general title of "France at War on the Frontiers of Civilization," describing the impressions of a visit to the fighting line in France.

By RUDYARD KIPLING.
(Copyright, 1915 by the Run Printing and Publishing Association.)

TRAVELING with two chauffeurs isn't the luxury it looks to be, since there is only one of you and there is always another of these iron men to reflect in the wheel. Nor can I decide whether an ex-professor of the terminus tongue or an ex-road racer who lived six years abroad or a brigadier makes the most thrilling drives through three mile stretches of military traffic repeated at half hour intervals.

Sometimes it was motor ambulances aiming all along a level or supply train or those stern idg guns coming around corners with their clanking on their long backs to puzzle aeroplanes and their leafy idg shells humming shorting behind them. In the rare breathing spaces men with rifles and road metal attacked the road. In peace the roads of France, thanks to the motor, were none too good. In war they stand incessant traffic far better than they did with the tourist. My impression after some 700 miles were printed off on me a between sixty and seventy kilometers was of uniform excellence. Nor did I come upon any smashes or breakdowns in that distance, and they certainly were trying them hard. Nor, which is the greater marvel, did we kill anybody, though we did mow down streets to avoid holes, kites and chickens.

Gaiety Amid Horrors.

The land is used to every detail of war and to its grim, horrible and makeshift, but also to war's unbounded courtesy, kindness and road suffering and the gaiety that comes, thank God, to balance the overwhelming material loss.

There was a village that had been stamped flat till it looked other than Pompeii. There were not three roofs left nor one whole house. In most places you saw straight into the cellars. But hops were ripe in the grave dotted fields round about. They had been brought on and piled. In the nearest outline of a dwelling women sat on chairs on the pavement picking over the good smelling bundles. When they had finished one they reached back and pulled another through the window hole behind them, talking and laughing the while.

A cart had to be maneuvered out of what had been a farmyard to take the hops to market. A thick, broad, fair haired wench of a sort that Millet drew half her weight on a spoke and brought the cart forward into the street, when she shook herself and, hands on hips, danced a defiant little jig in her sabots. As she went back to get the horse another girl came across the bridge. She was precisely of the opposite type, slender, creamy, skinned and delicate featured. She carried a brand new brown over her shoulder through that desolation and bore herself with the pride and grace of a Catalan. The farm girl came on leading the horse, and as the two young things passed they nodded and smiled to each other with the delicate tangle of the hop vines at their feet.

Crown Prince's Ambition.

The guns spoke earnestly in the north. That was the Argonne, where the crown prince was busily getting rid of a few thousands of his father's faithful subjects in order to secure to himself the reversion of his father's throne. No man likes losing his job, and when at the long last the inner history of this war comes to be written we may find that people we mistook for principals and prime agents were only average incompetents moving all hell to avoid dismissal. For it is absolutely true that when a man sells his soul to the devil he does it for the price of half nothing.

It must have been a hot light. A village, wrecked, as is usual along this line, opened on it from a hillside that overlooked an Italian landscape of carefully drawn hills and studded with small villages; a plain with a road and a river in the foreground, and an all revealing afternoon light upon everything. The hills smoked and shook and belched. An observation balloon climbed up to see while an aeroplane, which had nothing to do with the strife, but was merely training a beam, glimmer, dived and swooped on the edge of the plain. Two rose pink pillars of crumpled masonry guarding some carefully trimmed evergreen on a lawn half buried in rubbish represented a hotel where the crown prince had once stayed. All up the hillside to our right the foundations of houses lay out like a bit of tripe with the sunshine in their square hollows. Suddenly a hand began to play up the hill among some trees, and an officer of the local guards in the new steel antechapel helmet, which is like the seventeenth century sallet, suggested that we should climb and get a better view.

Found a Sure Thing.

REVIEW OF BY KITCHENER

"Solidarity of Civilization" Is Demonstrated—Hears Roar of German Guns.

He was a kindly man, and in speaking English had discovered, as I do when speaking French, that it is simpler to stick to one gender. His choice was the feminine, and the boche was described to us as "she" throughout. He made me think better of myself, which is the essence of friendship.

"Our" Guns and "Theirs."

We climbed a flight of old stone steps, for generations the playground of little children, and found a wrecked church and a battalion in billets recreating themselves with excellent music and a little horseplay on the outer edge of the crowd. The trouble in the hills was none of their business for that day.

Still higher up on the narrow path among the trees stood a priest and three or four officers. They watched the battle and claimed the great bursts of smoke for one side or the other at the same time as they kept an eye on their long backs to puzzle aeroplanes and their leafy idg shells humming shorting behind them.

"Theirs—no, not ours; that one was theirs. . . . That's boche shrapnel, they always burst it high. . . . That's our big gun behind such and such a hill. . . . He'll drop his machine in the street if he doesn't take care. . . . There goes a trench sweeper. . . . Those last two were theirs, but that"—it was a full roar—"was ours."

The valley held and increased the sounds till they seemed to hit our hillside like a sea. A change of light showed a village exquisitely perched atop a hill, with a redish haze at its feet.

Germans Play "Tipperary."

Said the lieutenant of local guards as the cars went on: "She play 'Tipperary.'"

And she did, to an accompaniment of heavy pieces in the hills, which followed us into a town all ringed with enormous searchlights. French and boche together, swelling at each other beneath the stars.

It happened about that time that Lord Kitchener, with General Joffre, reviewed a French army corps. We came on it in a vast dip of ground under gray clouds as one comes suddenly on water. For it lay out in misty lake of men mixed with darker patches of reed beds and an undergrowth of guns, horses and wagons. A straight road cut the landscape in two. Along its murmuring front it was as though Calmus had sown the dragon's teeth, till, in orderly furrows but broadest, till, horrified by what rose up, he had emptied out the whole bag and fled.

But these were no new warriors. The record of their mere pitched battles would have satisfied a Napoleon. Their regiments and batteries had learned to achieve the impossible as a matter of routine and in twelve months they had learned to win a week's direct contact with death.

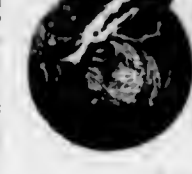

Generals See Troops.

When the generals' cars arrived there was no loud word or subduing about. The lakes of men gathered into straight edged battalions, the batteries aligned a little, a squadron reined back or spurred up, but it was all as shiftily smooth as the certainty with which a man used to the pistol draws and levels it at the required moment. A few peasant women saw the generals alight. The aeroplanes, which had been skimming as low as swallows along the front of the line—these must have been a superb view—ascended leisurely and waited on like hawks.

Then followed the inspection, and one saw the two figures, tall and short, growing smaller side by side along the white road till far off among the cavalry they entered their cars again and moved along the horizon to another rise of the gray green plain.

"The army will move across where you are standing. Get to a flank," some one said.

We were no more than well clear of that immobile host when it all surged forward, headed by massed tanks, playing a tune that sounded like the very noise of France. The two generals with their staff and the French minister for war were on foot near a patch of very green lucerne. They made about twenty figures in all. The cars were little gray blocks against the gray skyline.

There was nothing else in all that great plain except the army, no sound but the clanking notes of the aeroplanes and the faint impression rather than noise of the feet of men on the soft ground. They came over a slight ridge, so that one saw the curve of it first farred, then grassed with the tips of bayonets, which immediately grew to full height, and then beneath them poured the wonderful infantry. The speed, the thrust, the drive of that broad line mass was like a tide race of an arm of the sea, and how much speed could go with such weight, could be in itself so absolutely under control, filled one with terror. All the while the band on the far headland was telling them and telling themselves as they did not know of the passion and gaiety and high heart of their own land to the speech that only they could fully understand.

To hear the music of a country is like hearing a woman think aloud.

"Sambre et Meuse" Perhaps.

"What is the tune?" I asked of an officer beside me.

"My faith, I don't recall for the moment. I've marched to it often enough, though. 'The Sambre et Meuse,' perhaps. Look, there's my fat fellow, those chassours yonder."

He knew, of course, but what could a stranger think in that earth-shaking passage of 200,000?

The note behind the ridge changed to something deeper as—

"Our guns," said an artillery officer and smiled tolerantly on the first long waves of the line already beating toward the horizon. They came twelve abreast, 150 guns free for the moment to take the air in company behind their team, and next would see them hidden singly or in furling configurations of two or three by mountain and marsh, forest or the wrecked habitations of men.

When the big guns followed them with that long nosed air of detachment peculiar to the breed the gunner at my side made no comment. He was content to let his arm speak for itself. But when one big gun in a sickly place fell out of alignment for an instant I saw his eyebrows contract.

The artillery passed on with the same inhuman speed and silence as the line, and the cavalry's shattering tramp closed it all. They are like our cavalry in that their horses are in high condition, and they talk hopefully of getting past the barbed wire one of these days and coming into their own. Meantime they are employed on various work as required, and they all sympathize with our rough rider of dragons who lately refused to take off his spurs in the trenches. If he had to die as a damned infantryman he wasn't going to be buried as such.

Only One Horse Fell Out.

A troop horse of a tanking squadron decided he had had enough of war and jibbed like Lot's wife. His rider, we all watched him, ranged about till he found a stick, which he used, but without effect. Then he got off and led the horse, which was evidently what the brute wanted, for when the man remounted the jibbed again. The last we saw of him was one lurching lurching figure leading one lurching lurching horse across an absolutely empty world. Think of his reception—the sole man of 20,000 who had fallen out.

The commander of that army corps came up to salute, the cars went away with the two generals and minister for war, the army passed out of sight over the ridges to the north, the peasant women stooped again to their work on the fields and a wet mist shut down on all the plain. But one thought with the electricity that had passed that way. Now one knows what solidarity of civilization means. Later on the civilized nations will know more and will wonder and laugh together at their old blindness.

When Lord Kitchener went down the lines before the march past they say he stopped to speak to a general who had been Men-had's chief of staff at the time of the Fashoda incident, and Fashoda was one of several cases when civilization was very nearly unseparated into fighting with itself for the king of Prussia. As the saying goes, the ill embracing violence of the boche is last realized from French soil, where they have had large experience of it. And yet, as some one observed, we ought to have known that a race who have brought monstrous letter writing to its highest pitch in their own dirty court affairs would certainly use the same methods in their foreign politics. Why didn't we realize?

For the same reason, another responded, that society did not realize that the late Mr. Smith of England, who married three wives, bought baths in advance for each of them and when they left him left all their money drowned them one by one.

"And were the baths by any chance called Denmark, Austria and France in 1870?" a third asked.

No; they were respectable British tubs, but until Mr. Smith had drowned his third wife people didn't get suspicious. They argued, "Men don't do such things." That sentiment is the criminal's best protection.

HOME DECORATION

Some Expert Suggestions About the Furnishing of Homes.

SIMPLE, BEAUTIFUL LINES.

How Charming Effects in Wall Papering, Floor Coverings, Lighting and Harmony May Be Obtained is Told in a Practical Way.

There are a great many people who can appreciate a beautiful decorative scheme for a home but who cannot tell why they appreciate it and who cannot duplicate it.

"How beautiful," they exclaim, "and how simple! One would think that any one could do it." However, "many one could," and that is just where the trouble comes in.

The first essential to good decorating is innate good taste. If this is lacking all the science in the world will not make up for it. The second requirement is the knowledge of some of the simpler principles of color, line, form and composition. This one may acquire if one is willing to take a little trouble.

The first thing to do when you are confronted with the decoration and furnishing of a given room is to take an inventory of its color possibilities. It is the element that can unite and strengthen or weaken the most carefully studied arrangement of form and line.

The psychological effect of colors, red being exciting, blue elevating and yet low cheering, is well known. All colors need modifying before they can be successfully used in home decorating. In selecting a color scheme for a room these colors should be used which have one of the primary colors as a base.

For example, let us assume that we wish to decorate a room whose prevailing colors shall be buff—we find that in producing buff we have included a little yellow and red, some orange russet and citron. We are to apply these to a living room, the wood work of which is dark mahogany. We would apply the buff, the prevailing color, to the walls; the russet to the floor; the yellow to the ceiling; the orange to the trim; and the citron to the upholstery.

Yellow is an expanding color and makes areas seem large, hence its value in a small room. Red is a positive color and makes a room hold its true value. Blue is a contrasting color and makes a place seem smaller.

Perpendicular stripes on a wall paper or draperies will give the room height. Horizontal stripes in wall paper or draperies will give the room width. Small, disconnected spots of pattern in wall paper will dance and are seldom to be desired. Realistic flowers, fruits or birds in wall papers and draperies should never be used.

Floor coverings or treatments should be low in tone and should form a base for the room. Highly polished floors are uncomfortable to walk on and impractical from every viewpoint. The natural finish of wood is dull, not highly polished. Great rugs should be chosen with great care and should be investigated with an eye to the real value, both in wear and color. If a worn rug offered to you as antique is less than $5 a square foot there is something wrong. Either the dealer is being cheated or you are.

Considerable attention should be given to the subject of lighting. The modern indirect lighting, excepting for use in the service part of the house is not opposed. For reading or for general lighting effects the softer, mellower direct light, shined by either a silk or glass shade, is preferable. Arrangement of lighting fixtures in the home should be such as to give you light where it is needed, rather light is costly, both to the eyes and pocketbook.

In furniture it is well to avoid excessive curving—knobs, handles, spirals and—only curves. In simple lines and broad, graceful curves there are charm and dignity.

Extensive wall and floor spaces are needed to properly carry large furniture, such as divans, daybeds and "overstuffed" pieces. In small rooms they crowd and complicate the room, making them look much smaller than they are. In small rooms a simple, light set of furniture of the straighter type is best, but if that cannot be obtained furniture of the Georgian period will be found very satisfactory.

Adam furniture is always painted. Sheraton is always inlaid with other woods and Heppelwhite or Chippendale date always carved. These are the principal Georgian period divisions and should be chosen according to individual requirements.

Mahogany, genuine or imitation, and other highly polished woods should be avoided where wear comes. They are easily scratched, gather dust and finger marks and require much labor to keep them in condition.

Period furniture should be used only in the rooms fitted completely in the given period. In modern small apartments, with little wall space and miscellaneous woodwork, it has no place.

Potted plants and cut flowers are a means of decoration that can be both inexpensive and effective. A large Boston fern or a single rose in a slender vase gives life and charm not to be gained in any other way.

"Have nothing in your home that you do not know to be useful and believe to be beautiful," stated William Morris.—"From 'Good Taste in House Furnishings.'"

LIBERALS SUPPORT WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Compromise with Purpose of Forestalling State-Wide Prohibition

MAY SUBMIT TO PEOPLE

Redistricting Promised to Remove Republican Complaint—Scores of Bills Introduced, Many Are Nearly Identical.

FRANKFORT, Ky., (Special.)—All of the Democratic platform recommendations will be adopted at this session of the Legislature with the possible exception of that covering revision of the state's revenue and taxation laws, which may be handled at a special session for that specific purpose upon the call of Governor A. O. Stanley, according to leaders in political circles.

There is a chance for the woman suffrage amendment to be passed which will submit the question to the voters next year. It is claimed that many of the liberals are in favor of this as a forestall and compromise of the state-wide prohibition amendment.

A redistricting measure, fair enough to remove Republican complaint, will not doubt be put through. Stanley County, a partition of Pike and the 12th county is expected to be created after an interesting fight in both branches of the General Assembly.

The investigation into expenditures for printing is expected to be followed by legislative inquiry into the conduct of certain departments and institutions.

Governor Stanley has welcomed the public resolutions of this sort and has made it clear that he will insist on the state's affairs being conducted in the same manner as a business man would manage a going concern.

On the first bill day for the Senate scores of them poured into the top per.

Senator Frost introduced a State-wide prohibition bill. It provides for a vote to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors to become effective June 20, 1919, and to prohibit the manufacture of intoxicating liquors to become effective June 20, 1920.

An anti-bill was introduced by Senator Williams. It provides that the Secretary of State shall keep a register which shall contain the names of persons appearing before the Legislature in the interest of certain measures. This register will not only contain the name of the lobbyist, but the measures for which he works.

Among other important bills introduced were:

A bill amending Section 125 of the constitution so as to give equal suffrage to women was presented by Senator Dimes.

Another amendment to the constitution was offered by Senator Arnett. This bill seeks to make the State Superintendent of Public Instruction eligible for reelection. The bill provides that the State Superintendent may be elected or appointed, but if the re-election case is brought to the attention of the House, the House may disapprove or reappoint.

The destroying or burning of election stub books is provided for in a measure presented by Senator Brock. The workmen's compensation act was offered by Senator Knight.

Senator Strickland's bill requires associations or corporations operating in this city to pay employees twice monthly.

The bill of Senator Antle increases the penalty for the unlawful sale of whisky to five months.

Owners of live stock slaughtered because of the foot and mouth disease will be reimbursed if the measure of Senator Zimmerman, providing for the payment of claims for loss suffered on account of the disease is enacted into law.

The bill offered by Senator Dimes regulates the right of taxation corporations to do a trust business in this state and to act as trustees under deeds and mortgages.

Senator Glenn's bill creates the office of County Health Supervisor in one or more counties.

The establishment of a Western Normal School for negroes in Western Kentucky is asked for in the bill of Senator Hantman.

Senator Leach introduced a bill requiring railroads operating for a distance of 15 miles or more to stop all passenger trains at county seats, or at some station within four miles of the county seat.

The operation of ferries by counties is provided for in a bill of Senator Glenn.

Senator Combs introduced a bill amending Section 201 of the constitution, permitting the consolidation of competing telephone companies.

The creation, organization and maintenance of county high schools by two or more counties is provided for in the bill of Senator Frost.

first of May instead of the first of August, is asked in the bill of Senator Taylor.

Senator Williams' bill seeks to limit the number of cars in a train to 80. Senator Knight introduced a bill to amend Section 64 of the constitution to permit the enactment of a workmen's compensation act.

Practically the same bills were introduced in the House.

The resolution by Senator Antle, seeking for the Legislature to send its endorsement of ex-President Taft for the Supreme Court Justiceship, was laid on the table by a vote of 19 to 15, after a number of warm arguments were advanced. Several Democrats supported the resolution. Senator Frost said that he should not be endorsed because he vetoed the Webb Kenyon bill, claiming that it was unconstitutional.

Senator Robertson spoke earnestly to secure the endorsement of Chief Justice Miller.

Senator Scott said that the entire procedure was out of place and foolish for the Legislature to attempt to suggest who President Wilson should appoint and made a resolution to table the motion, which received a number of seconds and a hearty applause from the gallery.

Later in the week the Senate refused to endorse Judge Benton or any one else.

No senator fared better than Senator Helm on committee appointments. He was made chairman of Public Road committee, and placed on the Committee on Finance, Kentucky Statutes, Printing and Congressional Redistricting. The indications are that he will become the busiest member of the session.

Senator Knight, of Louisville, introduced a bill in the Senate to appropriate $50,000 to pay for the cattle killed in the state to eradicate the foot and mouth disease.

Sportsmen from all parts of the state gathered in Frankfort at the call of the State Game and Fish Commission to work out regulations and offer suggestions for new legislation on the game laws. They called on Governor Stanley, who commended the work of the Commission, but refrained from endorsing any of the bills.

Representative Langley has consented to be a candidate for Delegate at-large to the Republican National Convention. The state convention will be held March 1st.

The "what" and "where" question has been injected into the house sessions during the week. The City Council of Frankfort had discussed the matter of providing an ordinance to keep the sidewalks open until midnight instead of eleven o'clock, in order to provide for the legislators according to the reports.

Rep. Lyon, of Hart County, one of the ultra-dry, introduced a resolution providing that the House recent any reference that the members of the House desired the saloons to remain open for their benefit.

The point was raised that the resolution was out of order. Rep. Humphrey, of Fleming, was presiding in the absence of Speaker Duffey and was named the point. An appeal, signed by Rep. Harvey and Lyon, was taken.

Vacating the chair, Speaker Humphrey designated Rep. Harry Myers of Coddington, to preside. The appeal was sustained by a vote of 47 to 44. The resolution was then adopted by the vote of 40 to 30.

A petition, seeking the impeachment of J. E. Williams, Judge of McCracken County, alleging he is an incompetent and unqualified official, was filed in the House to Rep. Radcliffe, of Henry County.

The resolution of Rep. Minor, placing the House on record as against extra help, was adopted.

The repeal of the Proton Combs' act, which created a board of health to be known as the State Board of Control for Pests and Thwartable Institutions, is provided in a bill of Rep. Cary. A board of three members at a salary of $1,000 annually, to be appointed by the Governor, is provided, and they will have complete charge of prisons, houses of reform, state asylums and all charitable institutions.

The Senate advanced Tuesday night of respect to the memory of the late Senator Walter E. Hall, of Kenton County. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions on his death.

Not satisfied with the number of bills introduced to the Senate during the session, the House members introduced two anti-pass bills, two state-wide prohibition bills and two anti-bill bills.

The Pinn railroad bill, giving the State Railroad Commission the same power over interstate shipments as the Interstate Commerce Commission made its appearance again this week in both the House and Senate. It was killed and buried out of the legislative arena of 1912 and 1914.

Calling for an investigation of the status of the suit of the Commonwealth against Dr. J. N. McCormack, of Bowling Green, former secretary of the State Board of Health, a resolution was unanimously passed by the Senate being introduced by Senator Huffaker. The suit is seeking to recover $50,000, money alleged to have been spent illegally.

THIS IS FOR YOU MR. TOBACCO GROWER.

The Farmers Home Tobacco Warehouse Company has adopted the profit sharing plan. This means the net profit above six per cent. dividend, instead of being given to the stockholders, are to be given to you in proportion to your patronage.

The more tobacco we get the larger will be the profits returned. This profit sharing plan is guaranteed by the undersigned Directors. We were the first house in Kentucky to offer our warehouse to the farmers on the profit sharing basis.

Mr. Ford the automobile manufacturer made this proposition and returned $50.00 on every automobile; if we can get your support and sell 5,000,000 pounds of tobacco, we can return you fifteen to twenty cents on every hundred pounds sold. We guarantee to divide the profits, the other fellow keeps it.

The farmers see the proposition, and in consequence we have more than sold our pro-rata. The average of the Lexington market to date has been $10.00 per hundred, the Farmers Home average is $10.61, a net gain to our customers of sixty one cents. This has been accomplished by honest methods, and fresh tobacco which is always attractive to the buyer.

We have the second largest house in Lexington; it can house one hundred and twenty wagons; the stables are separate and apart from the warehouse, with one hundred and twenty box stalls. We have one hundred and thirty farmers as stockholders who control and direct the policy of this house.

We solicit your patronage and influence, and invite you to call and inspect our house and investigate this plan, because it means a saving to you.

HIDDEN DANGERS

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Lancaster Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are weak. Weak kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Disordered kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, suggest weak kidneys and in that case warn you of the danger of dropsy, gravel and bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills are endorsed by thousands. Here's Lancaster proof:

C. T. Brummett, grocer, Crab Orchard St., Lancaster, says: "Nearly every spring, I use Doan's Kidney Pills to keep me in good health. During the winter, colds settle on my back and cause pains through my kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills stop the pains and my kidneys become normal."

Success in Perseverance. Inventions appear to be a case of 'try, try again.' No doubt Robert Fulton thought this when he awoke one morning and learned that his first steamboat had gone down as rapidly as a rocket goes up. The machinery proved too heavy. But he began his 'try again' process and, at last, when the Clermont traveled from New York at the rate of 150 miles in 32 hours, who was considered a great success, although it is difficult to imagine this in an age noted for rapidity.

A great many, perhaps most all, illnesses have their beginning in mismanagement of the stomach and digestive tract.

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy starts at the first dose to put stomach and bowels on the way to health. The first dose proves it.

It is taken with success everywhere. Here are the words of two Tennessee people who have taken it:

MISS W. J. WARD, Sparta, Tenn.—"I can honestly recommend your remedy to all sufferers from constipation and stomach troubles. Indigestion seems a thing of the past with me."

Room in Order Saves Nerves.

System and order are as necessary to a woman as light and air; particularly does the well-being of the working woman's nerves depend on these two things. A day—some Sunday—spent in planning and arranging her room and her belongings will make for weeks and months of tranquillity and comfort in the life of one who is employed six days a week outside her room.—Exchange.

Overcoming Insomnia.

Sometimes repeating rhymes and jingles, taking full, deep breaths between words or lines, will hasten sleep, or lying in a certain position may work in other cases. One man can always sleep if he lies on his left side and reads for a few minutes. Many people try the reading plan, but reading in bed is not hygienic and it is better to turn some other good-sleep habit.—Good Health.

What the Fishes Can See.

Fishes can distinguish one color from another and can even distinguish between different shades of the same color. This has been proved by a long series of experiments upon gobies and sticklebacks, undertaken by Miss Marie Colquhoun in the biological laboratory at Roorhoff, France, under the direction of Professor Delage. These also proved that fishes can distinguish between the forms or shapes of objects.

Plainly Expressed.

A certain rector in a small English village who was disliked in the parish and a curate who was very popular, and who, on his leaving, was presented with a testimonial. This excited the envy and wrath of the rector and, meeting with an old lady one day, he said: "I am surprised, Mrs. Bloom, but you should have subscribed to this testimonial." "Why, sir," said the old lady, "if you'd been a-going 'd have subscribed double."

Enemy of the Fern.

One of the worst enemies of ferns indoors is the mealy bug. This is a white, woolly insect that clings close to the bottom of the fronds. When there is reason to suspect its presence the plant should be examined every day and all insects removed with a splutter or toothpick. If the infestation is bad, the whole top of the fern can be cut off to within an inch of the ground and then allowed to grow again after all the insects have been exterminated.

AUSTRIA GIVES ANCONA REPORT

Assumes Responsibility For Ship's Loss.

NEW ISSUE RAISED WITH U.S.

Government May Protest Ship Was Destroyed Before All Her Passengers and Crew Had Left Her—Declares Lister Filed.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The Italian liner Ancona case, which has been puzzling the department of state ever since she was torpedoed in the Mediterranean, was presented in still another light with the issuance of a statement by the Austro-Hungarian embassy, giving the official account of the destruction of the liner.

While the Austro-Hungarian statement, if accepted as correct, disposes of the question as to whether the Ancona was warned before being attacked, it raises still another issue in which the United States may prove to be vitally concerned. It is shown that any Americans were killed by the actual torpedoing of the Ancona. It is believed the United States will protest on the ground that the vessel was torpedoed before all her passengers and crew had left her. The statement follows:

"The submarine fired one shot in front of Ancona's prow, whereupon the steamer fled at full speed, in accordance with the order issued by the Italian authorities, which instructs ship commanders to flee or to sink the submarine. The submarine pursued the steamer and continued firing, but the vessel stopped only after being hit several times.

"The submarine allowed forty-five minutes for the passengers and crew to abandon the steamer on board of which panic reigned, but only a small number of boats were lowered and these were occupied principally by the crew.

"A great number of the boats, probably sufficient to save all the passengers, remained unoccupied.

"After a period of fifty minutes and as another steamer was approaching the submarine submerged and torpedoed the Ancona, which sank after an additional forty-five minutes.

"If any of the passengers lost their lives this was due to the fault of the crew, because the steamer tried to escape after it had received orders to stop, and then the crew only saved themselves and not the passengers.

"Reports published in the foreign press that the submarine fired on the Ancona's lifeboats are mendacious inventions.

WILL COST $4,300,000 MORE

U. S. Mail Contract In This Section Is Let.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Railroads in the "third contract section" will receive $20,073,184.36 a year for carrying mails during the four years beginning July 1 last, under adjustments announced by the postoffice department.

This is an increase of more than $4,300,000 over the annual compensation allowed under the adjustment of 1907. Section three is the largest of the four contract divisions established by the department for convenience, and embraces Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Missouri. Mail in the section is carried over 67,375 miles of track by 151 different railroads, a daily average of 5,724,348 pounds being handled by about 4,000 trains.

SEEKS TO LOCATE JOKER

Offers Reward For Arrest of Person Who Signed His Name to Letter.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 15.—A reward of $50 has been offered by Mrs. Mollie Winkler for the arrest and conviction of the person who signed her name to a letter applying for a position as housekeeper for a printer here. According to dispatches from South Norwalk, Conn., Gilles Gregory, for two years an inmate of the city almshouse, recently fell heir to $150,000. Since then he has been deluged with matrimonial and other proposals. One of the letters was signed with the name of Mrs. Winkler.

"I am Mrs. Mollie Winkler," writes the Mayanay Mrs. Winkler, "but I never wrote to any man for a position as housekeeper."

"Daredevil" Pegoud

"Loop the loop" aviator killed in action.

He was the dauntless aviator—high. He called his winged ship against the blue. Of heaven's feathered canopy, the sky? He was the captain! The intrepid crew? And when the world was swallowed up in the dark and the mist, a massive cup Of star fire split across his trail. That shimmered and shone like a meteor trail.

He was the daring hero of the age? At his command the gay air spirits would hold him close within their eager arms. War's white Is death's power in war has now been told. And when the east was ruffled over With the flush of morn, supreme he'd stand.

An eagle soaring the roof of the world. Ere yet day's banners were unfurled? He was a maiden knight of earth's late hour. Fame holds him for her youngest child in fee. Mid pangs of cold and death, for glory's tower. His hand was out to pluck incessantly. Aye, came it morn, day or night. His pilot hand could guide aright. Yet science marks the path to fly. Pegoud, the brave, must fly—and die! —J. Corson Miller in New York Times.

BLUEJACKETS' WASHDAY TO BE ONLY A MEMORY.

Regular Laundries May Be Installed on All Sea Fighters.

The navy department will soon take under consideration Secretary Daniels' plan to install laundries for the enlisted men on all battleships.

It came about during the secretary's visit aboard a battleship during his first year in the service. Through an oversight a number of buckets of water containing soiled clothing of blue-jackets had been left standing along the deck when the secretary came aboard. It was evidently "blue Monday" aboard that particular ship, and the secretary inquired the reason for the buckets.

He was told they were wash buckets, in which the men did their own laundry work. When the secretary got back to Washington he decided that one of the first things to do would be to install a laundry on a battleship by way of experiment. The Texas was selected, and bids were opened for two large washing machines, two centrifugal wringers and a soap tank.

The operation of the laundry was placed in charge of a first lieutenant, and regular laundrymen were engaged to do the washing for the Texas. The members of the crew, released from the arduous duties of wash day, were glad to pay 40 cents a month, irrespective of the number of pieces they had in the wash. Officers, chief petty officers and users of mess linen are charged so much per piece, as these dignitaries are required to wear standing collars, and the laundry work for them is harder.

According to the report made by Captain A. W. Grant, who was in command of the Texas until a short time ago, it is a big success. He recommended that laundries be established aboard all the battleships, and it is regarded as probable that the idea will be carried out before the close of the present administration.

Aside from the fact that it relieves a battleship crew of the work of laundry duty, the saving to the navy in fresh water is alone sufficient, officers say, to insure the installation of common laundries.

COTTON IN MANY COLORS.

Planter Believes His Successes Will Be Blow to Dye Makers.

Remarkable results seem about to be achieved by A. W. Brubham of Olin, S. C., who has succeeded in producing cotton which ranges in color from white to deep olive green. The planter is positive that black cotton, sought for ages by spinners and manufacturers, is about to become a reality.

The seeds used by Brubham were of Egyptian staple. He has practiced seed selection extensively and in four years has secured in regular order from the Egyptian seed a cream, tan, yellow, green, light brown, olive green and bronze.

The samples are not to be confused with tinges in cotton, which might be the result of exposure or weather conditions. Neither is there any suspicion that dyes have been used.

Brubham believes that the spinners and manufacturers eventually will be enabled to secure cotton in the raw or unmanufactured state in any desired shade or color.

WEEKLY WAR REVIEW

Tentons and Bulgarians the past week continued their efforts to cut off or annihilate the Serbian army. These efforts, however, are growing more difficult, as the Serbians now have occupied, according to their official report, defensive positions in the mountains. Heavy fighting is reported on the Moravia. Big battles also are proceeding in southern Serbia between the Bulgarians and the Anglo-French troops. Rome announced Nov. 13 that Italy had decided to send troops to aid the English and French.

The continued landing of British and French troops at Salonika caused Bulgaria and Turkey to send fresh protests to the Greek government. A dispatch dated Nov. 14 states that four German officers arrived at Salonika from Sofia on Oct. 25 and spent three days mulling in that district, especially in the section where the allied troops were concentrated on the 25th. It is said that the Germans constitute a special mission, whose object was to establish relations between the governments at Athens, Constantinople, Bucharest and Sofia.

King Constantine was accused by the Germans. It is said that Romania would remain neutral and that Bulgaria's pledge to Greece would be guaranteed by Germany.

According to a series of dispatches from Petrograd the remounting of the czar's army is nearly complete. The Russian offensive has begun in earnest between Riga and Mitau. A Berlin dispatch admits that the Russians have caused a failure in the first line of German troops.

Artillery engagements featured the week on the western and Italian fronts.

STARVE THE HESSIAN FLY.

The Hessian fly, being in the "daxseed" stage in wheat stubble and in unharvested wheat from June 1st September or even October in the south, can be destroyed by carrying out the following methods of control:

First.—Burn where possible and safe all stubble and ruined wheat.

Second.—Disk all stubble and ruined wheat immediately after harvest where burning is impracticable.

Third.—Plow under deeply all stubble and ruined wheatfields before Aug. 15, burrow the ground and roll if necessary.

Fourth.—Harrow, disk, pasture or otherwise effectually destroy all volunteer wheat.

Fifth.—As a measure preparatory to sowing, plow as early and deeply as existing conditions will permit. Disk, harrow and roll until a thoroughly pulverized, compact seed bed is obtained.

Sixth.—Do not sow wheat until after fly free date.

Seventh.—Rotate your crops if possible.—United States Department of Agriculture.
